“Job Satisfaction and Organizational Commitment. A Case Study Nagaraju Velde 2021 Abstract Job satisfaction and organizational commitment that play a very important role in the growth and survival of organizations and reduce delays and layoffs of employees and increase the level of efficiency and effectiveness in organizations. The study, entitled “Investigating the Relationship between Job Satisfaction and Organizational Commitment from the Perspective of Professors and Administrative Staff of the Al Dar University college is a descriptive -correlation al study. Its main purpose was to study the relations hip between job satisfaction and organizational commitment. The statistical population is the professors and staff of the Aldar University College. Due to the small number of professors and staff of this institution, all of them (53) have been included in the research. In this study, the required information was collected by two questionnaires of job satisfaction and organizational commitment and was analyzed using software and its descriptive and inferential results are described in the tables which in the Descriptive method describes the variables of satisfaction. Job (nature of work, co-workers, growth opportunities and payments) and organizational commitment variables (emotional commitment, continuous commitment ) and in inferential analysis by correlation test or Pearson correlation to test hypotheses and analyze the relationship between Job satisfaction and organizational commitment are addressed. The results of the research show that the majority of the employees of this institution are satisfied with their work; but They are not satisfied with the behavior and attitude of the supervisors. On the contrary, the majority of the employees of this institution read the behavior of their colleagues as friendly and satisfied. The majority of the employees of this organization have said that there is no suitable opportunity for growth and promotion. The majorities of the employees of this institution are interested in this organization and consider the problems of the organization as their problems; but they do not see the current organization as suitable for securing their future, and they will leave the organization if they are offered a better job elsewhere. The results showed that the majority of the faculty and staff of this organization are below the level of job satisfaction (supervisors, growth opportunities and payments) and are below the level of continuous commitment. Regarding the hypotheses, the research showed that there is no relationship between the nature of work and emotional commitment. There is a significant relationship between the behavior of supervisors and normative commitment. There is no significant relationship between employee behavior and normative commitment. There is a significant and positive relationship between growth opportunities and pay and continuous commitment.

There is a positive and significant relationship between job satisfaction and organizational commitment of the professors and staff of the Aldar University College.

Sources of Job Satisfaction and Organizational Commitment

Masami Iburi 1991 by Lincoln and Kalleberg (1990), the study incorporates both attitudinal- and organizational-level data, which are grouped into five major classes of explanatory variables: work environment, industrial setting, worker orientations, labor force demography, and the character of unionism.

Relationship Between Organizational Commitment and Job Satisfaction Among Employees Aniss Yusairah Abdul Kadir 2011

Job Satisfaction Rosalie Osbourne 2015 Job satisfaction is a central concept in work and organizational psychology as it is associated with important individual as well as organizational outcomes. Work is the number one activity that occupies most of adults' waking time. Being satisfied with one's job, which is defined as a pleasurable or positive emotional state resulting from the appraisal of one's job or job experience, is related to important work-related and health-related outcomes (e.g., higher job performance, organizational commitment, organizational citizenship behavior, life satisfaction, lower absenteeism and lower counterproductive work behavior). This book discusses determinants of job satisfaction as well as workplace implications and the impact job satisfaction has on the psychological well-being of individuals.

Commitment to Work and Job Satisfaction

Bengt Furåker 2011-12-21 People's work orientations and attitudes to paid work are highly important for the welfare of any country. Still, little is currently known about how such attitudes are distributed among different countries, men and women, classes, occupations, age groups and so on. Even less is known about how work orientations have changed during the dramatic social transformations of economies and labour markets during recent decades. What happened, for example, to work orientations in Iceland when the country went bankrupt? The answer is quite surprising. Or, is it true that work is losing its position in people's lives in Western world? What is the relationship between people's attitudes to work and the way they actually behave on the labour market? This timely book deals with these questions - and more - presenting fresh knowledge on changes in work orientations in many countries. It is based on genuine theoretical arguments and thorough empirical studies, using both qualitative and quantitative methods. It is a great source of new knowledge on work orientations and changes in attitudes to work.

Job Satisfaction and Organizational Commitment

Ricky W. Griffin 1985 The literature on job satisfaction and organizational commitment is reviewed. Job satisfaction is defined and current theoretical perspectives identified. Subsequent discussion focuses on the measurement of satisfaction, methods of studying satisfaction, the determinants of satisfaction, and the consequences of satisfaction. A parallel treatment of organizational commitment follows. Finally, agendas for future theory and research are summarized.

Job Satisfaction and Organizational Commitment for Private University Employees Ralph Schroder 2008

Relatively few studies have examined job satisfaction and its intrinsic and extrinsic facets as well as their relationship to organizational and religious commitment for religious private universities. This quantitative research study measured levels of job satisfaction, organizational and religious commitment as well as 5 demographic variables for 835 employees of a private religious university. The study revealed that university employees were most satisfied with their relations with students and peers, and least satisfied with their salary and organizational policy. It was shown that overall job satisfaction and its intrinsic and extrinsic facets were influenced by demographic variables, such as age, educational level, and occupational area.

Organizational commitment was related to age and educational level. Moderate correlations were found between organizational commitment and job satisfaction. A seven-predictor model explained 44.2% of the variance of organizational commitment with different models for the occupational subgroups. Religious commitment did not have a mediating effect on the relationship between job satisfaction and organizational commitment.
