Conversations in Critical Thinking and Clinical Judgment Donna D. Ignatavicius 2004

Engaging Teachers Trevor Gale 2003

Engaging Teachers makes a deliberate attempt to reclaim the education discourse captured by new right politics and connect it with a radical democratic agenda for schooling. On its agenda are education markets, policy, leadership, professionalism, and communities. Engaging with these is conceived on at least two levels. First, as an invitation to teachers to become involved in reconstructing schooling for socially just purposes and in democratic ways. From this perspective, the politics of engagement is not simply a matter of acquiescence or resistance but is informed by a commitment to genera.

A Guide to Evidence-Based Group Work Mark J. Macgowan 2008-02-12 "Organized logically around the process and philosophy of evidence-based practice, the text develops a four-stage sequence in which group workers formulate a practice question, search for evidence, undertake a critical review of the evidence, and apply the evidence with judgment, skill, and concern for relevance and appropriateness, utilizing evaluation to determine if desired outcomes are achieved. The evidence-based framework teaches students how to apply best practices through a wealth of case examples, checklists, assessment tips, and clear instructions for formulating questions and evaluating answers. Designed as a supplement for graduate group work courses, this landmark book will be equally valuable for professionals eager to hone their practice skills and researchers searching for group interventions and assessment tools."--BOOK JACKET.

The Survey 1919

Professional Learning Conversations Lorna M. Earl 2008-02-29 This, the first book in the series, 'Professional Learning and Development in Schools and Higher Education', is edited by two experienced, committed and skilled educationists from different parts of the world but with converging values and viewpoints. The result is a rich mélange of authors from the USA, Australia, South Africa, Canada and New Zealand all of whom focus on the use of evidence informed decision-making in schools and classrooms. This focus makes for an unusual collection which acts as an antidote to change agendas which are entirely results driven. The book provides evidence from a variety of countries of how s-tem leaders, teachers in schools and higher education must now manage as part of their endeavours to provide the best possible learning and achievement opportunities for all students. What makes this book unique is its engagement with the re- ties of the challenge of evidence informed conversations which all too quickly become 'activity traps' as teachers are steered away from evidence towards adopting short term pragmatic or ideological solutions which suit the policy agendas of reformists from outside schools and, more often than not, fail to result in real changes in teaching and learning.
