Euro-Mediterranean Co-operation Andreas Jacobs 2004 This Discussion Paper contains interventions and statements made during the conference Euro-Mediterranean partnership: Beyond the Iraq crisis organised by the Center for European Integration Studies (ZEI) on October 14 and 15, 2003 in Bonn. This IV. Mediterranean Forum was part of a larger project of co-operation dealing with the future of Euro-Mediterranean relations organized by ZEI and the Konrad-Adenauer-Foundation in cooperation with the Euro-Mediterranean Study Commission EuroMesco. The intention of both institutions is to intensify the dialogue between academics and politicians from both sides of the Mediterranean in order to create some form of collective identity which in the long run may help to ease existing differences and misperceptions.

The Barcelona Process George Joffe 2014-04-08 The Euro-Mediterranean Partnership - the Barcelona Process - aims to create integration in the Mediterranean Basin so as to encourage economic development along the Southern rim. The European Union in the Security of Europe Steve Marsh 2012-03-12 This book examines the European Union's contribution to providing security in Europe amidst an increasingly complex and challenging environment. In this new and comprehensive guide to the EU's role in security since the end of the Cold War, the authors offer an explanation of EU internal and external security regimes, and argue that the Union has become an important exporter of security within its region. However, the Union's rhetorical ambitions and commitments continue to outstrip its capabilities and it lacks both a common conceptualisation of security and a meaningful, shared strategic culture. Drawing extensively on primary sources the book examines the Union's relations with the US and Russia in a time of shifting geostrategic calculations and priorities. With the EU capacity for enlargement slowing, this text presents a detailed assessment of EU security policies towards Central Europe, the Mediterranean, the Western Balkans, Eastern Europe and South Caucasus. European Union Security will be of interest to students and scholars of the EU, security studies, and international relations.

Special Issue on the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership Richard Gillespie 1997

The Euro-Mediterranean Partnership Richard Gillespie 1997 This book offers an assessment of the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership, established in 1995, and its aims to create a free trade area including 30 countries and 800 million people by early in the 21st century.

The Euro-Mediterranean Partnership Markus Hahn 2009-03 Im Jahr 1995, beschlossen die EU-15 sowie zwölf ihrer südlichen Nachbarn in Barcelona die Euro-Mediterrane Partnerschaft, den sogenannten Barcelona Prozess. Diese Vereinbarung beinhaltet Zusammenarbeit in politischer und wirtschaftlicher sowie in kultureller Hinsicht. Ziel war die Schaffung eines gemeinsamen Raumes des Friedens, der Stabilität und des Wohlstands im gesamten Mittelmeerraum. Die vorliegende Studie diskutiert anhand des Barcelona Prozesses das Konzept der EU als normative Kraft und hinterfragt dessen Gültigkeit anhand einiger Grundannahmen der Theorie des Politischen Neorealismus. Demokratieförderung, Euro-Mediterrane Handelsbeziehungen und Migration sind Politikfelder, die im Rahmen dieser Studie näher beleuchtet werden sollen. Das Konzept der EU als normative Kraft des Guten nimmt tatsächlich eine wichtige Rolle im Rahmen des offiziellen EU-Sprachgebrauchs ein, deckt sich jedoch nicht mit der Realität der Beziehungen der EU zu ihren südlichen Nachbarn. In 1995, the EU 15 and twelve Mediterranean states concluded the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership. This agreement involves cooperation in political, economic and cultural matters. It aims at creating a common area of peace, stability and prosperity. This study discusses the concept of the EU as a 'normative' actor and questions its validity. In doing so, it relies on a neo-realist analysis. Democracy promotion, Euro-Mediterranean trade relations and migration are policy areas which, each for its own reasons, deserve special attention in the framework of the Barcelona process. This paper reviews the reality of Euro-Mediterranean relations and compares them with official EU documentation to demonstrate that the concept of the EU as a benign 'normative' actor suffers from severe shortcomings. The Emerging Euro-Mediterranean System Dimitris Xenakis 2001 Focusing on the principal challenges facing the Euro-Mediterranean partnership since the signing of the Barcelona Declaration in November 1995, this study assesses past European policies towards the region.

Assessment of the Barcelona Process in the Light of the New International and Regional Situation Erwan Lannon 2009 This is the sixth in a series of ten papers jointly published by the European Institute of the Mediterranean (IEMed) and the European Union Institute for Security Studies (EUISS) which aim to address ten critical topics for Euro-Mediterranean relations. The papers have been commissioned with a view to formulating policy options on a set of issues which are central to achieving the objectives set out in the 1995 Barcelona Declaration and the 2008 Paris Declaration, as well as defining new targets for 2020 in the political, economic and social spheres. This sixth paper offers an assessment of the Barcelona Process with a detailed analysis of the institutional and economic dimension of Euro-Mediterranean relations. The analysis of Professor Erwan Lannon shows the diversity and complexity of the frameworks and instruments of Euro-Mediterranean cooperation. Firstly, he evaluates the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership, secondly focuses on the European Neighbourhood Policy and, finally, he examines the potential impact of the Union for the Mediterranean and the Advanced Status of Morocco. From another point of view, Professor Azzam Mahjoub centres his analysis on the economic aspects of the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership evaluating the objectives outlined in the Barcelona Declaration and the outputs of the Euro-Mediterranean Free Trade Zone. In his opinion, the objective of reducing disparities is the most important challenge as there has been no relevant progress in the nine Mediterranean countries studied. In spite of the acknowledgment of some shortcomings in the Barcelona Process, both authors put forward a set of proposals to achieve the full potential of the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership.

Negotiating the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership Ricardo Gomez 2018-01-12 This title was first published in 2003. In this study Ricardo Gomez traces the origins of the external Mediterranean policy of the European Union (EU) and examines in detail the negotiations that shaped the policy and its impact. Combining historical analysis with case studies of the Euro-Med partnership initiative, EU policy on Algeria and the EU's involvement in the Middle East peace process, he covers a diverse array of issues that will appeal to scholars across a variety of sub-disciplines of political science and international relations.

The Euro-Mediterranean Partnership Pros and Cons Hani H. Habeeb 2002 This book is a historical document, a disputed analysis and evidence of the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership as introduced by the Barcelona Declaration. It is an account of the unprecedented and unrivalled negotiations between the Euro-Mediterranean partners and an evaluation of their achievements. It is also an account of the obstacles faced in the transformation of the Euro-Mediterranean region into one of peace, security, stability and prosperity to ensure the realisation of a just and comprehensive peace in the Middle East on the basis of the international terms of reference, democratic principles, the establishment of a free trade zone, a market economy system and the participation of civil society. The book addresses several questions which aim to determine whether the Partnership is an extension of the crusades and the Balfour Declaration, the result of international transformations, a reflection of diversity, or a real threat to the security, economy and culture of the Arab world, aimed at Arab identity and the perpetration of division amongst the Arab world through the creation of a multinational regional system identified as the Western model for an Eastern-Mediterranean system that will ensure the integration of Israel and the creation of a separate phase of rupture and alienation within the history of Arab civilisation. Similarly, this book argues whether the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership, globalisation, imperialist alliances and civil society are multiple manifestations of a single phenomenon to insure Western supremacy and strategic expansion, and the exploitation of the Mediterranean region. Or, whether the Partnership is the strategic Arab-European choice needed at this particular moment in history in order to galvanise an effective European political and economic role in the development, and economic, technological and civil evolution of the Arab world.
