Application of Computational Fluid Dynamics to a Monoplane Fixed-wing Missile with Elliptic Cross Sections Karen R. Heavey 2005 This report describes a computational study undertaken to investigate the performance of the CFD++ flow solver for prediction of nonlinear aerodynamics of a complex finned missile using structured hexahedral and unstructured tetrahedral grids. A monoplane fixed-wing missile with elliptic cross sections provided a geometrically complex model. Numerical solutions were obtained for this configuration at supersonic speed for various roll orientations, angles of attack, and yaw angles. Steady-state solutions were obtained using a three-dimensional Reynolds-Averaged Navier-Stokes solver with a two-equation turbulence model. Numerical results show the qualitative features of the flow fields at various cross-sectional and streamwise positions along the computational model of the missile. Aerodynamic coefficients were extracted from the computed solutions and found to match well with the available experimental data for these configurations. These numerical results show the effectiveness of using computational fluid dynamics techniques to produce an accurate prediction of the aerodynamics of geometrically complete configurations.

The Worldwide List of Alternative Theories and Critics Jean de Climont 2020-11-01 This Worldwide List of Alternative Theories and Critics (only available in English language) includes scientists involved in scientific fields. The 2023 issue of this directory includes the scientists found in the Internet. The scientists of the directory are only those involved in physics (natural philosophy). The list includes 9700 names of scientists (doctors or diploma engineers for more than 70%). Their position is shortly presented together with their proposed alternative theory when applicable. There are nearly 3500 authors of such theories, all amazingly very different from one another. The main categories of theories are presented in an other book of Jean de Climont THE ALTERNATIVE THEORIES

Includes all works deriving from DOE, other related government-sponsored information, and foreign nonnuclear information. Arranged under 39 categories, e.g., Biomedical sciences, basic studies; Biomedical sciences, applied studies; Health and safety; and Fusion energy. Entry gives bibliographical information and abstract. Corporate, author, subject, report number indexes.

Nuclear Science Abstracts 1968 NSA is a comprehensive collection of international nuclear science and technology literature for the period 1948 through 1976, pre-dating the prestigious INIS database, which began in 1970. NSA existed as a printed product (Volumes 1-33) initially, created by DOE's predecessor, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). NSA includes citations to scientific and technical reports from the AEC, the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration and its contractors, plus other agencies and international organizations, universities, and industrial and research organizations. References to books, conference proceedings, papers, patents, dissertations, engineering drawings, and journal articles from worldwide sources are also included. Abstracts and full text are provided if available.

Encyclopedia of Science and Religion 2003 Publisher description: How do the latest medical developments affect our beliefs in faith's healing power? Can artificial intelligence compare with human consciousness? Are genetic engineers interfering with Nature's work? This reference work deals with these questions and others, examining the issues and the history associated with the complex relationship between science and religion. Articles by scientists of many fields, philosophers and thinkers from all the major world religions present a variety of perspectives on the major scientific discoveries of our time and their effects on our religious belief system.
