Business Research Methods

Sheila Cameron 2009-11-24
Organizations need research, and managers have to be able to commission, judge and use others' research as well as conduct research themselves to inform business decisions. Business Research Methods helps you understand the challenges of carrying out worthwhile research into significant issues and develop a wide range of research-related professional skills. Guiding you through the process of selecting, carrying out and reporting on a successful research project, it breaks down the research process, from exploring the literature and crafting a research proposal to practical research management and addressing the transferable skills of project management and communication. Business Research Methods places research firmly in the real world, exploring why research is done and how to ensure that projects are meaningful for organizations. Examples and case studies, including examples of students' projects, give learners with little or no work experience a meaningful context in which to relate their own projects. Online supporting resources for lecturers include an instructor's manual with additional activities and supporting handouts, lecture slides and figures and tables from the text. Resources for students include web links, templates, quizzes, activities, examples of practice and sample questionnaire results for students.

Abstract: A text for researchers, analysts, and advanced college students in the fields of business, economics, and agribusiness presents a systematic approach to problem solving using analytical tools and techniques. The 15 text chapters are organized into 3 parts. The first part details the concepts managers consider in setting up a business research project, providing a theoretical basis for the research process and practical applications of the theory. The second part describes the data collection tools available to managers and guidelines for making appropriate use of each tool. The final part of the text discusses how managers make use of collected information in the problem solving process, describing basic approaches for preparing data for analysis using both managerial and statistical analytical methods.
