Geographical Knowledge Construction and Production Archie K. Deen 2015-09-02

Geographical Knowledge Construction and Production: Teacher and Student Perspectives is a readable and illuminating account of three high school classrooms in suburban Atlanta, Georgia. It challenges the narrow focus of the Advanced Placement (AP) programme as a tool for admission into colleges and universities in the United States. The research provides insight into the College Board's AP programme and argues for teaching and learning that is transformative and geared toward equipping students with the skills and knowledge necessary to confront the challenges of the 21st century. In particular, it advocates for geographic education that is anchored in the structure of the subject, teasing wherever possible, the contradictions and tensions embedded in the complexities of facts relating to people and places. This book is essential reading for professors and students of education, teachers and students of AP courses, parents, administrators, and state and federal agencies vested in the AP programme.

Human Geography for the AP Course Erin

Hogan Fouberg 2020 "Every important journey should start with a map. Maps guide us and give us direction. The purpose of this introduction is to help students navigate the AP Human Geography course by understanding the expectations involved in class, thus giving students a road map and providing them direction as they start their exploration. For many students, AP Human Geography will be their first venture into a college experience and the AP environment. In addition to this challenge, AP Human Geography may also be their first full yearlong course focused solely on geography. Therefore, it is imperative for students to have an idea of what to anticipate before the year starts"--

Top Vol 20-N1 Teacher Education and Practice 2008-09-09 Teacher Education and Practice, a peer-refereed journal, is dedicated to the encouragement and the dissemination of research and scholarship related to professional education. The journal is concerned, in the broadest sense, with teacher preparation, practice and policy issues related to the teaching profession, as well as being concerned with learning in the school setting. The journal also serves as a forum for the exchange of diverse ideas and points of view within these purposes. As a forum, the journal offers a public space in which to critically examine current discourse and practice as well as engage in generative dialogue. Alternative forms of inquiry and representation are invited, and authors from a variety of backgrounds and diverse perspectives are encouraged to contribute. Teacher Education & Practice is published by Rowman & Littlefield.
