and steels, with iron and steel alloys listed in one of 51 sections that cover eight major categories:
cast iron, cast stainless steel, steel casting, alloy steel, carbon steel, high strength and structural steel, wrought stainless steel, and tool steel.

Within each section, alloys are listed alphabetically by one of the names or grades commonly used in the US. After each grade, one or more UNS (Unified Numbering System)

Metallic Materials Specification Handbook

R.B. Ross 2013-11-27

Thermal Spray 1992

Steel - A Handbook for Materials Research and Engineering Verein Deutscher Eisenhüttenleute 1991-12-09 For the first time in this work the causal connections between microstructure, service properties and areas of application of all important steel grades are described in detail. The properties of any material are determined by its microstructure and the chemical composition of its microconstituents. Steel is a metallic material characterized by the great number of microstructure types which can be systematically produced by alloying with many other elements, by hot and cold forming, and by heat treatment with a wide range of time-temperature characteristics. These service properties can be economically matched according to the intended processing and application purposes. This two-volume handbook is intended for all producers and users of steel. It sets out basic principles for steel research and development aimed at creating steel grades that combine new service properties.
