A New Force at a New Frontier Kevin Madders
2006-11-02 This book will provide a comprehensive source of information for space specialists and others having a close interest in European space affairs. Written by an acknowledged expert and former space agency official, the work opens up a vital component of Europe's technostructure and the world's space programs. Its mass of information will serve the insider as a handy reference while its lively analysis will assist public judgment of European space efforts. The book first explores the Space Age's origins and Europe's response up to the 1970s. It then devotes its bulk to the present scene by investigating ESA, Eutelsat, Arianespace, Eumetsat, ASTRA, national agencies and other bodies. How this scene works, what has been achieved, how space technology is made and used and how policy is formed are main concerns, but of interest too are various crises, including recently Europe's man-in-space program. The book identifies challenges for the space community, business, and the EU and how they may be met.

2025-10-31 'How did Earth begin, Nanna?' (Nanna means Dad in Telugu—and he wasn't ready for the question.) What follows isn't a lecture. It's a series of magical, often hilarious conversations between a father and his two children—as they time-travel through Earth's story with help from the Moon, Fire, Ice, Soil, Ocean, and even a fast-talking Squirrel. Together, they explore how the universe was born, how life emerged, how humans changed everything, how our planet is now hurting—and what we can still do, with love and imagination. This book is rooted in science, wrapped in wonder, and lit by childlike curiosity. Told in playful chapters, this book makes the biggest questions feel personal—and the planet feels like home again. If you've ever struggled to explain climate, Earth, or our place in it—this book does it with wonder, not worry. Read it with a child, a parent, or just out of your own curiosity. It might change how you see everything.
