Modoc Ralph Helfer 1997-09-09 On a quiet morning in 1896, in a small German circus town, a boy and an elephant were born. The boy was named Bram, the elephant was named Modoc. Bram was the son of a local elephant handler, and even as a child he showed signs of becoming a master handler. Modoc grew impressively beyond anyone's imagination--exceptional intelligence, massive size, and a gentleness surpassing that of even the kindest elephants. The two were raised as siblings, and when news came that the circus was being sold, thirteen-year-old Bram did the only thing he could imagine: He stowed away to be with Modoc. Weeks into their voyage to the United States, they were caught in a catastrophic storm at sea, and Modoc single-handedly saved the lives of Bram and thirty sailors. Taken to shore in India, Modoc and Bram were heroes to the elephant-loving Indian people. Their unexpected detour lasted many years, as Bram studied under the legendary mahout elephant trainers of the Far East while Modoc--fully grown and with Bram at her side--became a master harvester in the remote teak forests of rural India. In the 1930s they finally arrived in New York, where for the next two decades Modoc rose to great performing fame in the center ring of the world's most popular circus. Known as "The Golden Elephant," she was the only elephant of her time who could dance and perform without a trainer. Modoc was a major American celebrity. Then a tragedy struck, and the lives of Modoc and Bram were forever changed. On a routine stopover between circus towns, Modoc vanished from under Bram's protective watch. Weeks of searching turned into years, but he never lost hope that he would see Modoc again... Modoc is an epic for the ages, destined to be a classic, and sure to be cherished by readers young and old. The Greatest elephant story ever told, lovingly recreated by Modoc's owner during the last twenty years of her seventy-eight-year life, Modoc spans eight decades and three continents. It is a tale of love, loss, and the deep spiritual bond between a man and his extraordinary nine-thousand pound companion.

The Legend of Modoc Ralph Helfer 2024-10-24 The Legend of Modoc tells of Ralph's return to India to hear a story of Modoc and Bram's desperate race through India, hoping to escape a neurotic and paranoid man, named North. A story that was lost in time about their bond, and a belief that love conquers all. "Fate intervened and the two of them embarked on adventures that were exciting, frightening, scary, uplifting, heartwarming, and unforgettable. There were times I found myself crying... not just because of the horrific encounters they were faced with... but with the way the two of them survived because of the love they had for each other... they survived because of an unshakable bond... a belief that love conquers all. Modoc and Bram win at the end. There were several major hurdles Bram and Modoc had to overcome, but I'm not going to go into detail. I leave that to the brilliant storyteller... my dear old friend, Ralph Helfer." - Carol Burnett Literary Animal Studies in the Anthropocene Jiang Lifu 2022-08-08 In 2000, the Nobel Prize-winning chemist Paul J. Crutzen and marine-science specialist Eugene Stoermer coined the term "Anthropocene" based on the assumption that the global impacts of human activities during the last 300 years are so significant and far-reaching in scale that they lead to a new geological epoch. The Anthropocene is adopted to signify the epoch subsequent to the Holocene in which human actions are shaping the planet so profoundly that they are now acting as a geological force. In this era, human activity is the dominant influence on the environment, and all lives on earth. This is the age we are currently living in, though debates about precisely when it began continue to rage.

The term has not as yet officially accepted within the field of geology; however as a frame for understanding a period of geological time marked by the significant impact of human activity on the planet, the Anthropocene has "extraordinary potential", and it is a "unique term simultaneously oriented to the past, present and future" (Human Animal viii). As Morten Tønnessen, Kristin Armstrong Oma argued, "no matter what one thinks about the Anthropocene, the notion radically changes how we look at nature, and mankind" (viii).

The book documents nearly 600 Chinese individuals who contributed, for better or worse, to the development of Chinese life and culture since the founding of the People's Republic of China in 1949. Though the book is weighted toward political figures, it includes persons in business, the military, academia, medicine, social movements, the arts, entertainment and athletics.
