units suffer from various problems. In the light of this background, the present study has been taken up to highlight the problems of MSME units of Guntur district. In Andhra Pradesh as it is learnt that they have been suffering from many problems on several fronts such as production, marketing, labour, finance etc. In fact, the performance of these units has been for better had they been free from these problems. The study is largely based on the primary data collected from MSMEs of different industrial Estates and Auto Nagar of Guntur District. The study has been divided into seven chapters. The first chapter deals with the role development and problems of MSME Sector. The second chapter describes the objectives of the study and the methodology followed. The third chapter outlines the growth and performance of MSME in the Indian scenario, Andhra Pradesh Scenario and Guntur scenario. The fourth chapter presents the sickness of MSMEs. The fifth chapter presents in a case study on development of MSMEs in Guntur District. The sixth chapter deals with the problems of sample needs in the Guntur District. The seventh chapter deals the findings and conclusions drawn from the study, besides suggestions made to MSMEs, policy makers and financial institutions to enable them play their respective roles in resolving the various problems faced by MSMEs.

International Marketing Management. The example of the Lemonaid Beverages GmbH

Erik Hündling 2021-03-29
Seminar paper from the year 2021 in the subject Business economics - Offline Marketing and Online Marketing, grade: 1,0, University of Applied Sciences Köln RFH, language: English, abstract: The goal of this thesis is to find out if Lemonaid should take the opportunity to expand internationally and which market could be entered. Furthermore, it will be established how to approach and position Lemonaid in the market and deciding which market entry mode should be used to promises the best possible success. This leads to the central question of this paper: How could a best practice strategy for an international market entry of Lemonaid Beverages GmbH look like? To answer this question, firstly the current situation of Lemonaid is assessed in terms of company resources and size as well as preparedness for internationalisation by using the Nine-Strategic Window framework. A potential market will be selected after it. In the third chapter, the market environment, the competition in the market and Lemonaid's competitive advantages in the market are analysed. For this purpose, Porter's Diamond, Porter's five forces and the competitive Triangle are used. After the assessment and the result of the analysis, the 4 P's (Product, Price, Place, Promotion) are determined based on a comprehensive SWOT analysis. Finally, the market entry mode is derived in chapter 5 in respective of all the information, analyses and data obtained. In recent years, consumer behaviour in terms of sustainability, environmental awareness and social responsibility has changed significantly. Consumers become gradually more aware of the consequences of their purchasing behaviour and pay more attention to environmental, political and social responsibility. It is assumed that this trend will continue even more in the future. Based on this development, it is expected that consumers demand for sustainable products and especially for products from companies in compliance with these mentioned values will increase strongly. One company whose strategy and vision are based on the sale of sustainable, eco-friendly and fair-trade soft drinks is the Lemonaid Beverages GmbH located in Germany. The enterprise achieved strong growth rates in sales in the last years and distributes already in some countries outside of Germany. The continuing increase in demand of sustainable products offers Lemonaid Beverages GmbH opportunities to enhance their success by expanding into new markets.

Green Technologies and Environmental Sustainability

Ritu Singh 2017-04-05 In the present scenario, green technologies are playing significant role in changing the course of nation's economic growth towards sustainability and providing an alternative socio-economic model that will enable present and future generations to live in a clean and healthy environment, in harmony with nature. Green technology, which is also known as clean technology, refers to the development and extension of processes, practices, and applications that improve or replace the existing technologies facilitating society to meet their own needs while substantially decreasing the impact of human on the planet, and reducing environmental risks and ecological scarcities. The concepts of Green Technologies, if endorsed and pervaded into the lives of all societies, will facilitate the aim of the Millennium Development Goals of keeping the environment intact and improve it for the civilization to survive. Green Technologies and Environmental Sustainability is focused on the goals of green technologies which are becoming increasingly important for ensuring sustainability. This book provides different perspectives of green technology in sectors like energy, agriculture, waste management and economics and contains recent advancements made towards sustainable development in the field of bioenergy, nanotechnology, green chemistry, bioremediation, degraded land reclamation. This book is written for a large and broad readership, including researchers, scientists, academicians and readers from diverse backgrounds across various fields such as nanotechnology, chemistry, agriculture, environmental science, water engineering, waste management and energy. It could also serve as a reference book for graduates and post-graduate students, faculties, environmentalist and industrial personnel who are working in the area of green technologies.

Proceedings of the International Symposium on Growing Media, Composting and Substrate Analysis Xavier Martínez 2013

Success Factors of Brand Extension in International Marketing Carolin Wobben 2006-07-28 Master's Thesis from the year 2006 in the subject Business economics - Offline Marketing and Online Marketing, grade: 1,7, University of Hamburg, language: English, abstract: Over the last decades, an increasing number of companies have begun to recognize that their brands are the most real and marketable assets they have developed and thus are a source of competitive advantage (e.g. Aaker 1990, p. 47; Kapferer 2004, p. 233). Through the establishment of brands and brand images, the positioning and diversification of own products towards competitors' products is supported and an additional value which goes beyond the mere technical-physical characteristics is created (e.g. Keller 1993, p. 2). The capitalization of this brand value through a brand extension strategy defined as "the use of established brand names to enter new product categories or classes" (Keller & Aaker 1992, p. 35) has become the preferred alternative for growth and a guiding strategy for product planners (e.g. Tauber 1988). Thereby, a company uses the equity built up in the names of existing brands, for example to improve the likelihood of new product success or to enhance marketing productivity (Rangaswamy & Burke & Oliva 1993, p. 61). The latter has especially gained importance due to a dramatic rise in costs for introducing new products. Especially advertising expenses have exploded due to the information overflow of consumers and the increasing number of products struggling for their attention. In practice, brand extensions have therefore been the core of strategic growth for a variety of companies. Especially in the last two decades, a strong tendency towards the brand extension strategy has shown compared to the new brand strategy. Whereas in the USA until 1984, the share of extension products in total new product introductions in the fast-moving consumers goods segment was only 40% (Aaker & Keller 1990, p. 27), the share amounted to 90% in 1991 (Rangaswamy & Burke & Oliva 1993). Some brand-owners like Procter & Gamble even launched their new products exclusively under established brand names in a period of time (from 1992-1994) (Zatloukal 2002, p. 3). While there have been several successful examples such as the extension of Boss (clothing) to Boss perfumes or Camel (cigarettes) to outdoor clothing, there have also been significant marketplace failures such as Harley Davidson wine coolers (Aaker 1990; Keller 1998) or Levi tailored suits. According to a study by Ernst & Young and Nielsen (1999), there has been an astounding 84% failure rate among brand extensions in some categories.
