Integrated Interdisciplinary Learning Between the Health and Social Care Professions

Rosemary Tope 1996 Traditionally, the various professions concerned with health and social care have undertaken their training and subsequent studies without interprofessional collaboration. Increasingly these professions are considering an interdisciplinary approach as the most effective way to deliver quality client care. However how do they proceed with implementing such radical changes? this book, based on empirical research provides answers to many of the questions. The opinions of 1683 teachers and students from thirteen professions are presented overall and also in individual professional profiles. The curriculum for each of the participating professions has been analysed and core subjects suitable for interdisciplinary learning identified, together with how and when integration should take place. This book should be valuable reading for all those involved or interested in the training of doctors, nurses, dentists, dental surgery assistants, dental hygienists, dental technologists, operating department practitioners, nutritionists and dietitians, occupational therapists, physiotherapists, podiatrists, radiographers, speech therapists and social workers.

Intellectual Disability in Health and Social Care
Stacey Atkinson 2014-09-16 Many practitioners within health and social care come into contact with people with intellectual disabilities and want to work in ways that are beneficial to them by making reasonable adjustments in order to meet clients' needs and expectations. Yet the health and wellbeing of people with learning disabilities continues to be a neglected area, where unnecessary suffering and premature deaths continue to prevail. This text provides a comprehensive insight into intellectual disability healthcare. It is aimed at those who are training in the field of intellectual disability nursing and also untrained practitioners who work in both health and social care settings. Divided into five sections, it explores how a wide range of biological, health, psychological and social barriers impact upon people with learning disability, and includes: Six guiding principles used to adjust, plan and develop meaningful and accessible health and social services
Assessment, screening and diagnosis of intellectual disability across the life course
Addressing lifelong health needs
Psychological and psychotherapeutic issues, including sexuality, behavioural and mental health needs, bereavement, and ethical concerns. The changing professional roles and models of meeting the needs of people with intellectual and learning disabilities. Intellectual Disability in Health and Social Care provides a wide-ranging overview of what learning disability professionals' roles are and provides insight into what health and social care practitioners might do to assist someone with intellectual disabilities when specific needs arise.
