Ethiopia International Monetary Fund

2010-06-23 The Ethiopian authorities have been generally responsive to the policy recommendations from the 2008 Article IV Consultation. To help rebuild international reserves and improve external competitiveness, the authorities made another exchange rate adjustment (a 5 percent devaluation) on January 31, 2010. The overall fiscal balance during July-December 2009 indicates stronger revenue collection than programmed. Ethiopia has been resilient to the ongoing global crisis because remittances have remained stable in 2009/10, FDI has risen 20 percent, and imports are lower.

Tax in Developing Countries Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: International Development Committee 2012-08-23 This report highlights the importance of tax collection in developing countries, and recommends that the UK's aid programme should increase its focus on supporting tax authorities. This is equally valid for all forms of taxation, including VAT, personal income taxation and corporate taxation. It is also essential that taxes are paid on a fair and equal basis by all. New tax rules on developing countries, the Controlled Foreign Companies (CFC) rules are designed to discourage UK-owned corporations from using tax havens. Traditionally these rules have applied to all UK-owned corporations - both those operating in the UK and those operating overseas. Under the new rules, however, this will apply only to corporations operating in the UK, making it easier for those operating in developing countries to use tax havens. A number of NGOs have campaigned vigorously against the changes, with ActionAid estimating that developing countries may lose up to £4 billion in tax revenues as a result. The UK Government does not accept this estimate, but does not deny that there will be some cost to developing countries. The Committee recommends that - subject to the outcome of its own analysis - the Government should consider reversing the change as a matter of urgency. The Committee also received evidence which argued that the Government should require UK-owned companies to report their financial information on a country-by-country basis, rather than on an aggregate basis. The Government is reluctant to act unless other EU countries do likewise, but the Committee believes that it should act unilaterally

Factors Affecting Tax Evasion in Ministry of Revenues. The Case of Large Taxpayers Branch Office 2022-11-09 Master's Thesis in the subject

Business economics - Accounting and Taxes, , language: English, abstract: The general objective of the study is to identify the determinant causes of tax evasion in the Ministry of Revenue Large Taxpayers branch office. This study tries to address the following specific objectives: To identify the impact of tax rate and level of income on tax evasion. To indicate whether inflation affects tax evasion or not. To show effects of the complexity of the tax system such as penalty and probability of detection on tax evasion. To detect the relationship between the perceived role of government and tax evasion. To determine the effects of attitude and perception on tax evasion. To identify the effects of age, gender, education level of taxpayers and peer pressure on tax evasion. Tax evasion is a global scenario irrespective of any attribute of a country and has been experienced in both developed as well as developing countries. Unless nations can mitigate and minimize the magnitude of tax evasion, it will be difficult to overcome illicit financial activities & cash flows and drain channels of corruption. As per the above article, Yonas Sendaba and his group's tax evasion includes all unlawful activities by a taxpayer with the motive of minimizing tax liability. It occurs when taxpayers intentionally failed to execute their tax responsibility. It is an intentional violation of laws and it is evident in situations where tax liability is fraudulently reduced, or false claims are filled on the revenue tax form. Tax evasion does not only minimizes government revenue but also harms the current and future economic development of the country. Whether evaders understand or not, they share the problem of the society caused by tax evasion. Most public goods provided by the government are financed by revenue collected from the tax. As the collection of revenue from tax and customs minimizes, the government is forced to minimize the provision of goods and services to the general public. As the result, related factors of development are affected. However, the factors of tax evasion are not well identified; there are indicators of the presence of tax evasion and its effects. Therefore, this research tries to investigate major factors of tax evasion and prioritize these factors for better recommendation to the concerned body and contribute to the improvement of the tax system. Droughts, cereal prices, and price stabilization options in Ethiopia Dorosh, Paul A. 2018-11-15 Increases in cereal prices can have adverse effects on poor net food buyers. This is a particular problem in Ethiopia because of frequent natural calamities – especially droughts – that lead to significant price hikes. Conversely, falling domestic prices of some cereals (especially maize), typically at harvest time, can be detrimental to producers who are net sellers. Price stabilization efforts are therefore an important consideration for Ethiopian policy makers. This paper sheds light on options for cereal price stabilization in Ethiopia drawing on experiences of other developing countries. The international experience in food price stabilization shows that while some countries have achieved success, the efforts of many others have actually destabilized market prices at great fiscal cost. We assess the extent to which price stabilization efforts in Ethiopia were effective during the major El Niño induced drought of 2015/16 and find that opportunities were missed to enhance food security and consumer welfare through permitting private sector imports in order to curtail the rise in cereal prices and to reduce fiscal costs for the government and donors.

Assessment of Principles and Practices of Good Governance in Tax Administration Ghetnet Metiku 2018-09-24 Academic Paper from the year 2016 in the subject Business economics - Accounting and Taxes, , language: English, abstract: The significance of good governance in ensuring effective tax administration in the public sector and enhancing tax collection is an undeniable fact that is generally accepted. Yet, there is scanty empirical evidence on the actual application of the principles of good governance in the structure and operation of public sector institutions and its outcome, particularly in the tax administration system. Hence, purpose of this study is to investigate the measures taken to institutionalize the principles of good governance within the Ethiopian Revenues and Customs Authority (ERCA). More specifically, the study assessed the level of conceptual understanding and commitment to the principles of good governance, measures taken to create ownership of the principles; the extent to which the ERCA put in place organizational policies, standards, strategies and structures to institutionalize good governance, and measures taken to improve human resource capacity to implement the principles of good governance. In terms of scope, the study focuses on the assessment and collection of taxes from category “C” taxpayers in selected sub-city branches of the ERCA. The research is essentially a case study that uses quantitative and qualitative data gathered from primary and secondary sources to inform its findings. The bulk of the data for this study was generated from primary sources namely, the leadership and staff of the ERCA and category ‘c’ taxpayers as clients of the Authority. The study accessed these informants through key informant interviews, knowledge, attitude and perception (KAP) questionnaires and survey questionnaires. The research also utilized secondary sources in the form of documentation on the activities of the ERCA. Secondary data was gathered from both print and electronic sources including academic literature, laws and policies, organizational documents, and the ERCA website. The study found that, while there have been efforts to institutionalize the principles of good governance in the structure and operations of ERCA, these measures have not had the anticipated level of impact felt by the employees and clients of the Authority. This has been expressed in the limited confidence of employees and clients on the limited extent to which good governance principles have been internalized by the Authority, and the inadequate capacity of the Authority to identify and address instances of misconduct and corruption. Doing Business 2019 World Bank 2018-11-30 Sixteenth in a series of annual reports comparing business regulation in 190 economies, Doing Business 2019 measures aspects of regulation affecting 10 areas of everyday business activity: •Starting a business •Dealing with construction permits •Getting electricity •Registering property •Getting credit •Protecting minority investors •Paying taxes •Trading across borders •Enforcing contracts •Resolving insolvency These areas are included in the distance to frontier score and ease of doing business ranking. Doing Business also measures features of labor market regulation, which is not included in these two measures. This edition also presents the findings of the pilot indicator entitled 'Contracting with the Government,' which aims at benchmarking the efficiency, quality and transparency of public procurement systems worldwide. The report updates all indicators as of May 1, 2018, ranks economies on their overall 'ease of doing business', and analyzes reforms to business regulation -- identifying which economies are strengthening their business environment the most. Doing Business illustrates how reforms in business regulations are being used to analyze economic outcomes for domestic entrepreneurs and for the wider economy. It is a flagship product produced in partnership by the World Bank Group that garners worldwide attention on regulatory barriers to entrepreneurship. Almost 140 economies have used the Doing Business indicators to shape reform agendas and monitor improvements on the ground.

The Main Determinants of VAT Revenue Productivity in Ethiopia. A Research Molla Dessie 2020-09-21 Master's Thesis from the year 2018 in the subject Business economics - Trade and Distribution, course: Economics, language: English, abstract: The prime objective of this study is to investigate the main determinants of VAT revenue productivity in Ethiopia. In order to address this main objective we focused on the following specific objectives. VAT is one of the indirect taxes levied on consumption where the value of goods and services increases as they charge hands in course of production, distribution and final sales to the consumer. Ethiopia has implemented the Value Added Tax in January, 2003 primarily to raise more revenue, modernizing its tax administration and encourage investment and trades. The Ethiopian Customs and Revenue Authority (ERCA takes the responsibility), and is facing with a substantial problem of VAT revenue collections efficiency. So in this study, the efficiency of VAT over time and determinants of productivity of VAT in Ethiopia at macro level from 2003-2016 has been given focus. To achieve this objective, the researcher used quantitative research designs using secondary data from the data sources (i.e. ERCA, NBE, and WB). Some statistical graphs, tables and percent are used, and also Autoregressive Distributed Lag (ARDL) Approach model is applied in order to investigate the long-run effect of determinants of productivity of VAT revenue. The study concludes that productivity of VAT in Ethiopia is less efficient over time which is 18% on average and, very responsive to changes in its determinants (specifically GDPcG, inflation, import, population, and corruption). So this investigation provides decision makers with an analytical framework which can be used to estimate the associated VAT revenues productivities in Ethiopia.

Taxation for Sustained Prosperity Dr. Samuel Tadesse 2023-02-09 Taxation relates to the policies, regulations, and processes involved in deciding how much each citizen, resident, and business should contribute to funding government activities (i.e., tax policy). It is also about how these contributions should be collected from citizens, residents, and businesses (i.e., tax administration). It also discusses how society ensures that each citizen, resident, and business contribute their fair share as determined by the policies and regulations set by the government. Taxes fund the government's operations, programs, and activities (i.e., fiscal policy). In this context, the government's primary business is delivering public goods, services, infrastructure, and security that improve people's living conditions.

Ethiopian Public Enterprises in Light of Competition Neutrality. The Case in Banking Sector Saleamlak Yemane 2021-12-21 Research Paper (undergraduate) from the year 2019 in the subject Business economics - Banking, Stock Exchanges, Insurance, Accounting, , language: English, abstract: The main objective of this study is to explore Ethiopian public enterprises in light of competition neutrality framework with particular emphasis to the banking sector. Establishing SOEs is one of the modes of government intervention in the economy. Such direct role of the government in the economy will have both positive and adverse effects in the commercial environment. It has positive contributions since public enterprises tried to achieve different social objectives as their primary roles. In contrast, as a result of being owned by the government, they are preferential treated in different manners that impede business activity of private undertaking in the same market. Such preferential advantages are not based on better performance, superior efficiency, better technology or superior management skills but are merely government-created. To overcome such adverse effects the OECD come up with a competition neutrality framework that connotes a similar set of rules to public enterprises and private undertaking. It further demonstrates major set of rules from different countries experiences. These are the similar rules in taxation regime, procurement rules, bankruptcy rules and proceeding, the general applicability of the competition law and its enforcement, and the prohibitions of subsidies including exclusive market advantages. Currently the Ethiopian government own public enterprises in different sectors of the economy that needs critical assessment from competition neutrality points of view. The Ethiopian banking sector in general and one of the state owned bank called CBE conducts are criticized as competition distorting. This triggers the study to explore the status of SOEs in light of the areas of competition neutrality framework particular emphasis to the banking sectors. The research was conducted based on qualitative research approach by analyzing laws, documents and data collected through interview. This research is particularly studied by exploring the legal and practical treatment of private and public banks from Ethiopian taxation regime, public procurement ,competition law and enforcement, bankruptcy laws and de facto/de jure exclusive markets. Moreover, it tried to pin point adverse effects of such anti competition neutrality rules on private banks.

The Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia International Monetary Fund. African Dept. 2014-10-03 KEY ISSUES Context: Ethiopia's investment-led development strategy has delivered robust growth and progress toward Millennium Development Goals (MDGs). Restrained fiscal and monetary policies have helped maintain macroeconomic stability, although the financing mode of the continuing large-scale investment through public enterprises could risk undermining macroeconomic stability. A cautious policy stance will be critical in preserving the recent gains. Focus of the consultation: The discussions centered on policies to sustain strong economic growth and promote structural transformation. Issues covered included: (i) the policy mix to preserve macroeconomic stability and debt sustainability; (ii) the public sector investment program and its financing; and (iii) financial deepening, export competitiveness and the business climate. Outlook and Risks: Growth is expected to remain strong, driven mainly by agriculture and services. Inflation should continue to remain in single digits, in line with a tight monetary policy. Key downside risks include insufficient financing for infrastructure investment in the Growth and Transformation Plan (GTP), lower prices of main export commodities, and weather-related shocks, particularly a drought. Policy mix: Staff recommendations focused on sustaining a cautious policy stance, prioritization of public investments and closer monitoring of state-owned enterprises to ensure prudent borrowing in the context of a medium-term debt management strategy, enhancing export competitiveness, greater resource mobilization and development of the financial sector, and a more prominent role for the private sector. Structural improvements in the functioning of the money and foreign exchange market and building foreign reserves to at least three months of imports were suggested to enhance resiliency. The need for greater interest rate and exchange rate flexibility and improved competitiveness of the traded goods sector, including through exchange rate adjustment, was underscored.

Ethiopia's Value Added Tax System. Mechanics, Impacts, and Economic Significance Simon Asegid 2024-07-11 Seminar paper from the year 2024 in the subject Economics - Finance, Addis Ababa University (Department of Public Administration and Development Management), course: Managing Public Finance, language: English, abstract: This study examines Ethiopia's Value Added Tax (VAT) system, its administration, impacts, and significance within the country's economic and public finance landscape. It analyzes how well the VAT system aligns with principles of good taxation, such as equity, efficiency, and revenue generation, and identifies key challenges. The study employs a qualitative approach, reviewing relevant literature, legal/policy documents, and secondary data to understand the theoretical foundations and administrative framework of VAT in Ethiopia. The data collection involved document analysis of reports on implementation challenges and case studies. The findings indicate that the adoption of VAT in 2003 was a key component of Ethiopia's domestic revenue reforms, aimed at reducing reliance on foreign aid and grants. VAT has played a significant role in mobilizing domestic resources to finance development priorities. However, the study also highlights administrative and integration challenges, such as compliance issues, exemptions, and the need to further strengthen tax administration capacity. The study provides recommendations to strengthen VAT collection and compliance, as well as address the identified challenges. These include improving taxpayer education and engagement, enhancing electronic invoicing and data-driven compliance management, and reviewing the VAT exemption structure to better align with principles of equity and efficiency. The analysis of Ethiopia's VAT system offers insights into the challenges and opportunities faced by developing countries in implementing effective consumption-based tax reforms to support sustainable development and public finance management.
