Engineering a Compiler Keith D. Cooper 2004 Today's compiler writer must choose a path through a design space that is filled with diverse alternatives. "Engineering a Compiler" explores this design space by presenting some of the ways these problems have been solved, and the constraints that made each of those solutions attractive.

Partial Evaluation: Practice and Theory John Hatcliff 2007-07-16 As the complexity of software increases, researchers and practitioners continue to seek better techniques for engineering the construction of evolution of software. Partial evaluation is an attractive technology for modern software construction since it provides automatic tools for software specialization and is based on rigorous semantic foundations. This book is based on a school held at DIKU Copenhagen, Denmark in summer 1998 during which leading researchers summarized the state of the art in partial evaluation. The lectures presented survey the foundations of partial evaluation in a clear and rigorous manner and practically introduce several existing partial evaluators with numerous examples. The second part of the book is devoted to more sophisticated theoretical aspects, advances systems and applications, and highlights open problems and challenges. The book is ideally suited for advanced courses and for self study.

Technology of Object-oriented Languages and Systems : TOOLS 25 Christine Mingins 1998 This collection of papers examines the field of database and information systems. It includes topics such as: distribution and concurrency; application design; patterns and frameworks; Java; formal aspects of OO; modeling; languages; and measurement database."

Programming Languages: Implementations, Logics, and Programs S.Doaitse Swierstra 1996-09-11

This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the Eighth International Symposium on Programming Languages, Implementations, Logics, and Programs, PLILP '96, held in conjunction with ALP and SAS in Aachen, Germany, in September 1996. The 30 revised full papers presented in the volume were selected from a total of 97 submissions; also included are one invited contribution by Lambert Meerlens and five posters and demonstrations. The papers are organized in topical sections on typing and structuring systems, program analysis, program transformation, implementation issues, concurrent and parallel programming, tools and programming environments, lambda-calculus and rewriting, constraints, and deductive database languages.

Engineering of Computer-based Systems IEEE Computer Society. Technical Committee on the Engineering of Computer Based Systems 2002 Papers from an April 2002 conference, 25 in all, report on academic achievements and industrial applications in the engineering of computer-based systems. Contributors represent some 12 countries and a variety of application domains. Papers deal with themes of requirements engineering, processes and tools, system properties and methods, modeling and analysis, system architecture, model-based system development, component-based design and reuse, embedded systems, and mobile agents. Specific topics include an intelligent agent security intrusion system, managing complex temporal requirements in real-time control systems, using category theory to model software component dependencies, and advanced Petri nets for modeling mobile agent enabled interorganizational workflows. There is no subject index. Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc., Portland, OR.

CHILL, CCITT High Level Language Antonio Palma 1991 CHILL is the high-level programming language defined and recommended by CCITT for the production of efficient, reliable and maintainable software for telecommunication systems. It is a mature programming language, used in the development and maintenance of a number of leading telecommunication systems all over the world. Although initially designed with telecommunication systems in mind, the language has proven to be powerful enough for both general purpose and distributed real-time applications. This book contains forty contributions from many organizations around the world, which outline the latest and most important achievements concerning the implementation and use of the language and related programming tools and environments.
