Truncated Sequential Test Plans to Supplement MIL-STD-781B. Roy Field 1973 The report is intended to supplement MIL-STD-781B with additional reliability 'accept/reject' test plans which facilitate specifications to demonstrate equipment mean time between failures. In the past, military procurements have specified accept/reject criteria for demonstrating reliability (mean time between failure) of shipboard equipment by use of Mil-STD-781D sequential test plans. Basic limitations of these plans have been their number and the inability to calculate actual consumer and producer risks associated with sample sizes of one or two pieces of equipment when the effect of varying the total operating time for a test is desired. The computer-oriented method used to develop a sequential test plan for reliability demonstration enables an engineer to examine tradeoffs of actual producer and consumer risk, and short test time. (Author Modified Abstract).

Military Standard Estats Units d'Amèrica. Department of Defense 1980

MIL-STD-2411-1 Change 3. Notice Impacts to NAVAIR. 2010 The MIL-STD-2411-1 Change 3 notice proposes to implement 95 new data codes to the existing set of data codes as part of the military standard to support production of Raster Product Format (MIL-STD-2411) compliant data such as Compressed ARC Digitized Raster Graphics (CADRG) and Controlled Image Base (CIB). Most standard CADRG and CIB produced by the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency (NGA) are referenced by a unique two character data code as listed in section 5.1.4 of MIL-STD-2411-1. These data codes reference the chart series and / or scale of the CADRG or CIB that is produced. NAVAIR programs that utilize any RPF complaint map data products must be aware and plan accordingly for the proposed data code changes to MIL-STD-2411-1. At a minimum, any system documentation referencing MIL-STD-2411-1 will need to be modified to reference the newer standard once approved.

Requirements for the Control of Electromagnetic Interference Characteristics of Subsystems and Equipment Department of Department of Defense 2015-03-02 MIL-STD-461G, 2 March 2015 contains some of the most recent information on Electromagnetic Pulse (EMP) and protection of the Electromagnetic Environment (EME) for DoD equipment. Unfortunately, there is very little current information describing how best to protect an entire facility from intentional electromagnetic interference (IEMI). Although this standard is best suited for items such as electronic enclosures that are no larger than an equipment rack, electrical interconnections that are discrete wiring harnesses between enclosures, and electrical power input derived from prime power sources, the technical aspects are equally relevant to facilities design and construction. The principles in this standard may be useful as a basis for developing suitable requirements for facility design and construction. This MIL STD provides guidance on frequency scanning, emission identification, susceptibility testing, susceptibility requirements, limits, and test procedures for equipment installed in mission-critical facilities. This book is even more important nowadays as nations like China combine information warfare, electronic warfare and space warfare to create "intelligentized warfare". Why buy a book you can download for free? We print this book so you don't have to. First you gotta find a good clean (legible) copy and make sure it's the latest version (not always easy). Some documents found on the web are missing some pages or the image quality is so poor, they are difficult to read. We look over each document carefully and replace poor quality images by going back to the original source document. We proof each document to make sure it's all there - including all changes. If you find a good copy, you could print it using a network printer you share with 100 other people (typically its either out of paper or toner). If it's just a 10-page document, no problem, but if it's 250-pages, you will need to punch 3 holes in all those pages and put it in a 3-ring binder. Takes at least an hour. It's much more cost-effective to just order the latest version from Amazon.com This book includes original commentary which is copyright material. Note that government documents are in the public domain. We print these large documents as a service so you don't have to. The books are compact, tightly-bound, full-size (8 1/2 by 11 inches), with large text and glossy covers. 4th Watch Publishing Co. is a SDVOSB.
