Handbook of Research on Driving Socioeconomic Development With Big Data

Sun, Zhaohao 2023-02-24 Socioeconomic development has drawn increasing attention in academia, industries, and governments. The relationship between big data and its technologies and socioeconomic development has drawn certain attention in academia. Socioeconomic development depends not only on big data, but also on big data technologies. However, the relationship between big data and socioeconomic development is not adequately covered in current research. The Handbook of Research on Driving Socioeconomic Development With Big Data provides an original and innovative understanding of and insight into how the proposed theories, technologies, and methodologies of big data can improve socioeconomic development and sustainable development in terms of business and services, healthcare, the internet of everything, sharing economy, and more. Covering topics such as corporate social responsibility, management applications, and process mining, this major reference work is an excellent resource for data scientists, business leaders and executives, IT professionals, government officials, economists, sociologists, librarians, students, researchers, and academicians.

Introduction to DBMS Concepts Ms. Jyotsana Tewari 2026-03-10

Proceedings of the 1987 International Conference on Parallel Processing Sartaj Sahni 1987 Interest in the field of parallel processing has soared in this decade. Response to the annual conference held at Pheasant Run is clear proof: in the early 1980s just over 100 papers were submitted each year; in 1987 over 400 papers were considered. Such heightened interest is both gratifying and challenging in that the increasingly demanding applications in science, medicine, and industry that result from these studies are dependent upon the parallel systems as computing resources. The studies in this volume describe recent advances in all aspects of parallel/distributed logic circuits, impact of VLSI to parallel processor architecture, various concurrent-, distributed-, parallel-, pipeline-, or multiple-processor architectures; processor memory interconnections; computer networks; distributed databases; reliability and fault tolerance, modeling and simulation techniques; performance measurements; operating systems; languages; algorithms; mathematical analysis; and various application studies A rigorous standard governed the paper selection process in an effort to insure that the proceedings reflect the state of the art in parallel processing theory, design, and applications. Of vital interest to researchers, engineers, scientists, programmers, systems analysts, managers, and other interested in the design and application of parallel/distributed processors and processing. Handbook of Construction Safety, Health and Well-being in the Industry 4.0 Era Patrick Manu 2023-05-12 This Handbook seeks to examine and advance current understanding of the confluence of construction health, safety and well-being and the broad range of Industry 4.0 technologies in use in the architecture, engineering and construction (AEC) industry. Globally, the construction sector accounts for more than 100,000 occupational fatalities annually. In many countries, reports of work-related accidents, injuries and illnesses are commonplace, and there is an urgent need to improve the occupational safety and health (OSH) outlook of the construction sector. The fourth industrial revolution presents opportunities to leverage modern technologies (e.g., big data, artificial intelligence, automation, sensors, AR, VR and robotics) to improve the poor OSH performance of the construction industry. However, embracing such technologies could also induce unintended adverse consequences for the safety, health and well-being of construction workers. Therefore, the realisation of the opportunities as well as the mitigation of potentially adverse consequences requires research-informed holistic insights around the union of Industry 4.0 and construction occupational safety and health management. This cutting-edge volume addresses a significant gap in literature by bringing together experienced academics and researchers to highlight the drivers, opportunities and drawbacks of the merging of Industry 4.0 with construction health, safety and well-being. After a detailed introductory section which highlights key issues and challenges, section one covers the application of a broad range of digital technologies; then section two discusses the application of industrial production and cyber physical systems in the context of construction safety and health management. Readers from a broad range of AEC backgrounds as well as safety professionals and technologists will come to understand how the technologies are applied and the resulting OSH benefits as well as potential drawbacks.

Research Data Management in the Ecological Sciences Belle W. Baruch Institute for Marine Biology and Coastal Research 1986

The papers in the volume (by ecologists, data managers, statisticians and computer scientists) were presented at a symposium at Hobcaw Barony, Georgetown, South Carolina, in November, 1984. The papers describe standard data management techniques, the latest technological developments, and the future direction of data management in ecology. The book is divided into two sections. The first section includes general concepts and methods of research data management. The second includes specific examples of data management applications and currently available technology (e.g., ecological modeling aids, real-time data collection, management of satellite imagery data, geographical information systems). This volume will serve as a valuable aid to ecologists and administrators in implementing data management schemes at their sites.

Advances in Spatial Databases Oliver Günther 1991 These proceedings (26 contributions) reflect the broadened range of spatial database applications of the past few years, in particular, geographic applications, as the market for geographic information systems grows. Developments have been spurred by progress in hardware technology and in database management, computational geometry, and computer graphics, as well as the drive for environmental protection which requires the collection and management of huge amounts of environmental data.
