In this volume, sociologists, demographers, epidemiologists, social psychologists, statisticians and economists analyse the data of a large-scale multidisciplinary survey conducted in France in 1992 under the responsibility of the French national centre for research on health and medicine (INSERM), with the technical support of INED and the financial support of the governmental agency for research on AIDS (ANRS). 20,000 men and women have been interviewed, representing the population aged 18 to 69. What are the significant factors of sexual behaviour? What part does rationality play in the decisions of individual? What are the main reactions of men and women to the onset of the new and major risk in sexual activity represented by AIDS? This volume suggests some answers to these fundamental questions and reports the considerable methodological investment that was made for both collection and treatment of data.
