

Sulzer Pump Curves

A Sulzer pump curve is a graphical representation that shows the relationship between the flow rate and the head (pressure) generated by a Sulzer pump at various operating conditions. Each pump type is presented with its key features, as well as dimensions, performance curves and the most important technical data for specific pump models. Whether you work in mining, tunneling or ... For most wastewater pumps, the flow limits for smooth reliable operation is from 50% of BEP flow to 125% of BEP flow. The System Curve is a combination of static and dynamic head. The dynamic ... It also discusses pump performance curves, best efficiency point, total head calculation, affinity laws, common design/installation/operation errors, and condition monitoring support. The propeller is mounted on the pump shaft with a split axial retaining ring and key to allow easy disassembly. The propeller is dynamically balanced to reduce vibration. The pump shaft is tailor ... Pumps with low specific speeds are prone to flat Q-H curves or even a slight instability. Axial-flow pumps (high specific speed) usually have a flow range with a distinct instability, within which it is not ... This means, even at application points falling at the top or bottom of the chart, where efficiency is traditionally hard to come by, you can select a pump to reduce costs and do your job better. This pump (non oil-cooled) is suitable for wet pump installation only. It is NOT suitable for dry pump installation. Sulzer reserves the right to change any data and dimensions without prior notice and can ... Sulzer Select allows customers to make quick, accurate pump selections and to produce PDF output of the performance curve and data.
